Marble is coming back in the interior design world, and it is BIG.

Most perceive it as anything other than sleek and modern. However, the latest trends in marble design has begged to differ. Adding small doses with moderation as accents and statement pieces will certainly create a modern and good-looking room décor.

Marble's beauty is beyond words.

As a highly recommended material, it is tactile and strong, imbued with both emotion and cultural relevance. It also demonstrates strong versatile quality. It can be dark and subtle at this instance, but light and bold at the others.

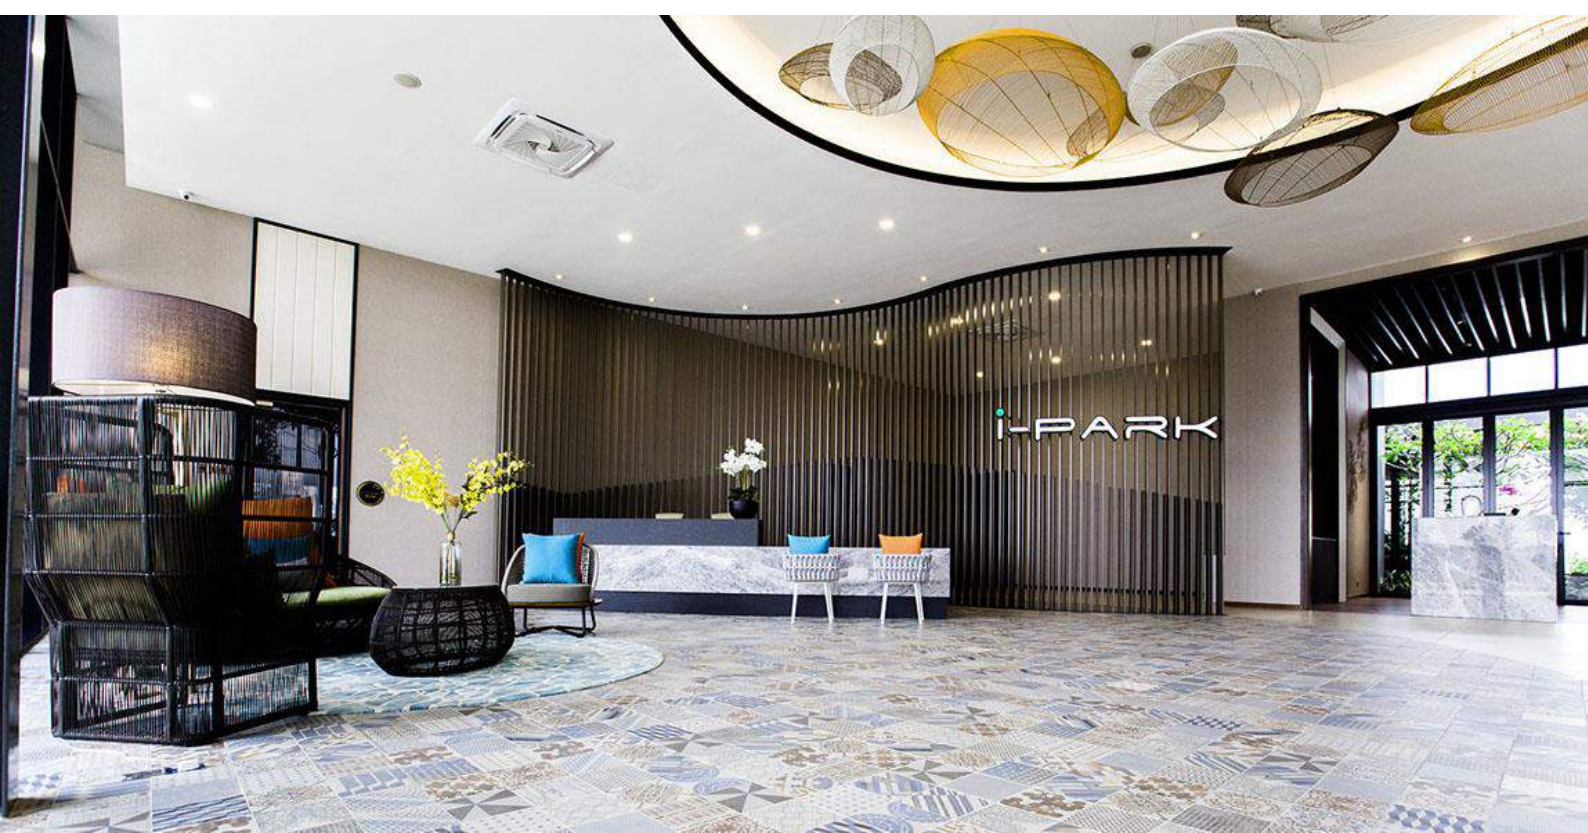

No doubts, it has found its ways in both in luxury interiors and modern settings, in combination with natural materials such as copper, leather and wood, and in faux decoration and ornamentation.

Some may consider marble being one of the most expensive materials to use in interior design, but truly who can resist the luxurious look?

Come on and get ready to dip in your treats of style and luxury.

Project Coverage

A New Benchmark of Industrial Park Sales Gallery Design.

I-Park SAC

An Urban Resort style that blends the stern stereotype of Industrial Park with the quiet, emotional indulgences of a peaceful, luxurious resort. That is indeed the design direction we have endeavored to accomplish when being commissioned to design the Sales Gallery.

What immediately catches the eye are the silhouette of the trees planted in the courtyard against the blue sky and green inclines. The Outdoor Lounge has also served the function of an Outdoor Bar.

new trends

Big, bold plants.

"One trend that will be at the forefront of home interior design in 2019 is big, bold plants. A dragon tree, a rubber tree or any kind of palm tree make eye-catching statements anywhere in a home. You can flank your sofa with one on each side or situate one in any corner. The bigger, the better here."

– Kenny Colvin, Designer, Giant Squid Creative

Touted for their health benefits and styling credentials, indoor plants have invaded homes and apartments with a style. Plant newbies and green thumbs have taken to the trend with equal enthusiasm, and you'd be hard-pressed to find a home, cafe or indoor space that hasn't welcomed the influx of greenery.

Architecture

Morpheus Hotel is like no other property in Macau.

Designed by Zaha Hadid Architects. While the sculptural design of Morpheus was inspired by China's centuries-old tradition of jade carving, the structure of the hotel hardly resembles any structure or building we have seen today.
